

Spot It! / Dobble

Official Rules — a game of wild atmosphere and fast reflexes • 2 to 8 players • Ages 6 and up. Published by Asmodee under licence from Divertis Properties Group; created and developed by Play Factory.

What Is Dobble?

Dobble (sold as Spot It! in some regions) consists of 55 cards, with 8 symbols per card drawn from 50 available symbols. There is always exactly one identical symbol in common between any two cards — it is up to you to find it. The matching symbol is the same shape and color; only its size may differ.

How to Learn (First-Time Players)

If you have never played, draw two random cards and place them face-up between all players. Look for the identical symbol between the two. The first player to find it names it out loud and draws two new cards. Repeat until every player understands that there is always exactly one identical symbol between two cards.

Object of the Game

No matter which mini-game you play, you must always be the fastest to spot the identical symbol between two cards, name it out loud, and then take, place, or discard the card depending on the rules of the current mini-game.

Winning the Overall Game

Dobble is a series of quickness-based mini-games in which all players play at the same time. You may play the mini-games in a set order, randomly, or repeat a single favourite. The player who has won the most mini-games wins the overall game.

Adjudication & Ties

In Case of Doubt

The first player to have named the symbol wins. If two players speak at the same time, whoever has taken, placed, or discarded their card first wins.

Ties

At the end of a mini-game, tied players duel (or play a round of Hot Potato if there are more than two). Each draws a card and reveals it at the same time; the first to find and name the identical symbol wins the duel.

The Mini-Games

Read the rules of the chosen mini-game aloud to all players before starting. A practice round is recommended.

Mini-Game #1: The Towering Inferno

Set-up: Shuffle the cards. Place one face-down in front of each player and make a face-up draw pile in the middle of the table.

Object: Be the player who has gained the most cards from the draw pile when the game ends.

How to play: On “go,” players flip their card face-up. Each player races to spot the identical symbol between their own card and the top card of the draw pile. The first to find it names it, takes that card, and places it face-up on top of their own card — revealing a new draw-pile card. Play continues until the draw pile is exhausted.

Winner: The player who has gained the most cards once the draw pile is empty.

Mini-Game #2: The Well

Set-up: Deal all cards one at a time to all players, starting with the winner of the last mini-game. Place the last card face-up in the middle. Each player shuffles their cards into a face-down draw pile in front of them.

Object: Be the fastest to get rid of all your cards — make sure you are not the last.

How to play: On “go,” players flip their draw pile face-up. Players race to discard cards by placing them on the middle card, naming the identical symbol between the top of their pile and the middle card. The middle card changes the instant any player places a card, so players must stay quick.

Loser: The last player to get rid of their cards loses.

Mini-Game #3: The Hot Potato

Set-up: Played over multiple rounds. Each round, give every player one card to hold hidden in their hand without looking at it. Set the remaining cards aside for later rounds.

Object: Be faster than the others to get rid of your card.

How to play: On “go,” players reveal their cards, keeping all symbols clearly visible (hold the card flat on an open palm). As soon as a player finds the identical symbol between their card and an opponent’s, they name it and place their card on that opponent’s. The opponent must then find the match against the next player. If they succeed, all of their cards pass at once.

Loser: The player left holding all the cards loses the round and sets them aside. Play at least 5 rounds; when no cards remain to hand out, the player who has gained the most cards is the overall loser.

Mini-Game #4: Gotta Catch Them All!

Set-up: Played over multiple rounds. Each round, place one card face-up in the middle and surround it with as many face-down cards as there are players. Set the rest aside for later rounds.

Object: Gain more cards, faster than the other players.

How to play: On “go,” each player simultaneously flips one of the cards around the middle card. Players find the identical symbol between the middle card and a just-revealed card. The first to find a match names it, takes that card, and sets it aside. Never take the middle card.

Winner: Once all revealed cards are taken, the middle card goes to the bottom of the draw pile and a new round begins. When no cards remain to draw, the player with the most gained cards wins.

Mini-Game #5: The Poisoned Gift

Set-up: Shuffle the cards. Place one face-down in front of each player and make a face-up draw pile in the middle.

Object: Be the player who has gained the FEWEST cards from the draw pile when the game ends.

How to play: On “go,” players flip their card face-up. Each player looks for the identical symbol between ANY other player’s card and the draw-pile card. The first to find one names it, takes the middle card, and places it on top of that other player’s card (the “poisoned gift”) — revealing a new card. Continue until the draw pile is exhausted.

Winner: The player with the fewest cards when the draw pile is empty.

Tournament Point System (Optional)
